OFFERING CUSTOM-CURATED SOLUTIONS

OncoBay Clinical is driven by an exciting new approach to clinical trials with custom-curated CRO solutions that provide experienced specialists, a highly-trained site network and the vast expertise of one of the nation's leading cancer treatment centers.

Enhancing your Team with IO Expertise

The immuno-oncology development space is evolving, and OncoBay Clinical can help you ensure your IO asset meets clinical development goals both today and in the future. Specializing in immuno-oncology clinical trials, our company boasts a respected team of executive leaders with over 100 years of oncology operations experience.

Every team member is experienced in IO, and because we are a smaller firm, you are not separated from critical experience by deep layers of organizational infrastructure. You have access to a responsive and expert team that is dedicated to your clinical trial from start to finish.

Guided by Scientific Expertise

OncoBay Clinical is a subsidiary of Moffitt Cancer Center, an internationally known leader in cancer treatment and research. We can leverage the unrivaled support of their top scientific advisors to help you design the most efficient plan for developing your asset.

OncoBay also partners with Moffitt's integrated cell manufacturing capabilities resulting in "vein-to-vein" control for your clinical trial.

Innovative & Efficient Process

OncoBay Clinical powers clinical trials that are expertly managed to maximize results and minimize time and costs.

We employ comprehensive technological solutions with advanced clinical oversight and integrated data review, reporting and analysis capabilities to ensure accuracy, efficiency and quality. This yields a scientifically based clinical review for every project.

With customized strategic and tactical solutions, OncoBay's focused immuno-oncology approach has been specifically designed to provide ongoing and transparent risk analysis and mitigation.

Connecting Patients to Hope

OncoBay is working to assure patients receive the treatments they need, in the communities where they live, from physicians they know and trust, surrounded by the people they love.

We have built a trusted site network to navigate the complexities of novel solutions impacting today's cancer treatments. Our model provides a broader range of expertise and a larger base of patients.

ONCOBAY PROVIDES TWO DISTINCT SITE RELATIONSHIPS:

CELL THERAPY CONSORTIUM

With the support of Moffitt Cancer Center, these sites have been specifically vetted and trained by OncoBay to conduct cell therapy trials. These sites have the capabilities, expertise, and resources to execute the complex requirements of CTx studies and enhance access to patients.

IO NETWORK

These sites have been vetted specifically for their ability to activate quickly, identify large numbers of patients, and integrate successfully within the OncoBay Clinical technology ecosystem. Working with these sites allows unparalleled transparency and efficiency, and many are also capable of working in JIT models.

These specialized networks increase patient access, reduce time, and decrease the expense required to conduct clinical trials.
